Compline

A Printable Reference Booklet

Gregorian Chant, According to the Traditional Roman Rite

How to use this booklet

The office for each day of the week (Sunday–Saturday) is given complete, in the form it takes throughout most of the year: the ferial hymn tone, the responsory as said outside of the penitential and paschal seasons, and Salve Regina as the anthem of Our Lady.

On Sundays and feasts of a special season, and on certain feast days, one or more parts of the office are replaced. The Appendix gives these alternate hymns, responsories, antiphons, and full alternate forms of Compline, organized by which part of the office they replace.

When a Priest or Deacon Presides

The seven weekday offices above give the form used when no priest or deacon is present. When one presides, the Confiteor and the versicles before the collect are said as follows instead.

The Officiant now bows profoundly and says the Confiteor alone in a low voice, recto tono. After this, all bow profoundly toward the Officiant and say in the same low recto tono voice:

Misereátur tui omnípotens Deus, et dimíssis peccátis tuis, perdúcat te ad vitam ætérnam. ℟. Amen.

Then, the Officiant stands upright, while everyone else, still standing, bows profoundly toward the Blessed Sacrament (or straight down) and says in a low voice, recto tono (Strike breast thrice at the threefold "Mea culpa"):

Confíteor Deo omnipoténti, beátæ Maríæ semper Vírgini, beáto Michaéli Archángelo, beáto Joánni Baptístæ, sanctis Apóstolis Petro et Paulo, ómnibus Sanctis et tibi pater, quia peccávi nimis, cogitatióne, verbo et ópere: mea culpa, mea culpa, mea máxima culpa. Ideo precor beátam Maríam semper Vírginem, beátum Michaélem Archángelum, beátum Joánnem Baptístam, sanctos Apóstolos Petrum et Paulum, omnes Sanctos, et te pater: oráre pro me ad Dóminum Deum nostrum.

The Officiant next says:

Misereátur vestri omnípotens Deus, et dimíssis peccátis vestris, perdúcat vos ad vitam ætérnam. ℟. Amen.

The Officiant introduces the Collect:

℣. Dóminus vobíscum.

℟. Et cum spíritu tuo.

The Officiant says again:

℣. Dóminus vobíscum.

℟. Et cum spíritu tuo.

Deus in Adjutórium: Laus tibi, Dómine

From Septuagesima Sunday until Easter, the response Laus tibi, Dómine, Rex ætérnæ glóriæ replaces the Alleluia.
